READING COMPREHENSION

Directions: This section contains 2 passages, each followed by a number of questions (27-36). Read the passages and for each question, choose the one best answer (A), (B), (C), (D) based on what is stated in or what can be inferred from the passage. Then, on your answer sheet, tick the letter of the answer you have selected.

Laser is an acronym for light amplification by stimulated emission of radiation. Stimulated emission is a variation of spontaneous emission, a process that occurs in atoms when an electron in a ground, or unexcited state, is knocked into a higher state when energy is applied to the system. As the electron drops back into ground state, a photon, or particle of light is released. As de-excitation occurs in millions of atoms, photons are released in a random fashion and light is emitted in every direction. An optical cavity, the space formed by two reflective surfaces facing each other, is used to control the direction of the beam. There are solid-state, gas, and liquid lasers, and by subjecting lasing materials to various types of energy — electrical, magnetic, or sonic-scientists have been able to control the laser output to suit various functions and applications.

In industry, the laser has proven to be a very versatile tool, particularly for cutting and welding. Lasers are now also used in high-speed printing and in the creation of three-dimensional images, called holograms. Laser tracking and ranging systems have been developed, using light signals to measure distance rather than the radio signals of radar. The use of the laser in biological and medical applications is also rapidly expanding, and the laser is already being used with great success in certain surgical procedures. In the field of communications the laser, used in conjunction with fibre optic networks, is capable of carrying much more information than conventional wires and is setting the stage for the 'electronic superhighway' of the near future.

27. The author's main purpose in this passage is to

A. persuade

B. entertain

C. illustrate

D')inform

28. It can be inferred from the passage that lasers are rapidly becoming

- A. obsolete in today's world
- B. more limited in scope
- C. a vital part of modern society
- D. less flexible in their uses

29. According to the passage, scientists have been able to control laser output by

- A. controlling the direction of the beam
- B. subjecting lasing materials to various types of energy
- C. increasing the number of photons traveling in a particular direction
- D. using a variety of lasing materials

30. What happens when an electron drops back into ground state?

- A. A particle of light is released
- B. Excitation occurs
- C. Energy is applied to the system
- D. There is an increase in the number of photons traveling in one direction

31. In line 14, the words 'in conjunction with' could best be replaced with which of the following phrases?

- A. at a crossroads
- B. aside from
- C. in combination with
- D. in addition to

One theory that integrates diverse findings on hunger, eating, and weight argues that body weight is governed by a set-point, a homeostatic mechanism that keeps people at roughly the weight they are genetically designed to be. Set point theorists claim that everyone has a genetically programmed basal metabolism rate, the rate at which the body burns calories for energy, and a fixed number of fat cells, which are cells that store fat for energy. These cells may change in size (the amount of fat they contain), but never in number. After weight loss, they just lurk around the body, waiting for the chance to puff up again. According to set-point theory, there is no single area in the brain that keeps track of weight. Rather, an interaction of metabolism, fat cells, and hormones keeps people at the weight their bodies are designed to be. When a heavy person diets, the body slows down to conserve energy (and its fat reserves). When a thin person overeats, the body speeds up to burn energy.

32. The passage would most likely be found in a textbook on which of the following subjects?

- A. Psychology
- B. Social studies
- C. Chemistry
- D. Biology

33. What is most likely the topic of the paragraph following this one?

- A. A different theory on body weight
- B. The importance of a proper diet
- C. The relation between activity and weight
- D. How to keep fat cells from enlarging

34. It can be concluded from the passage that

- A. a genetically thin person can easily gain weight
- B. it is impossible for genetically predisposed overweight people to lose weight
- C. people don't have as much control over their body weight as they might think
- D. humans are genetically designed to be overweight

35. The author's attitude toward the subject of weight could best be described as

- A. emotional
- B. disbelieving
- C. depressing
- D. scientific

36. The writer's purpose in writing this passage is to

- A. inform
- B. illustrate
- C. criticize
- D. compare

VOCABULARY

Directions: In questions (37-46) choose the correct answer (A), (B), (C), (D) and tick the corresponding letter on your answer sheet.

WRITING (61-100)

Directions: In this last section you choose one of the two suggested topics. In no more than 250 words, write about the subject.

TOPIC 1

Do you agree or disagree with the following statement:

'It is not ethical to target children with advertisements, as they are not yet able to distinguish advertising from actual programming in the way adults can. This means that advertising aimed at children is misleading and unfair'. Use specific reasons to support your answer.

TOPIC 2:

Today mainly all developed countries receive great numbers of immigrants. According to you, what causes people to emigrate? Give convincing arguments and examples to support your point of view.
